Well Aker Kills Will Austin.

On last Saturday night about nine o'clock, at the home of Will Aker, on the farm of Mr. C. L. Foster, near Oak.

Way, Aker shot and killed Will Austin. It seems that Austin, a short time before, had shot twice at Ajer with a double-barreled shot gun, but missed him, the shot taking effect in the floor and walls of Aker's house. Austin left and was gone only a few minutes, when he returned and renewed the fuss, where—upon Aker shot him in the abdomen. Austin lingered until Sunday morning, when he died. An inquest was held Sunday morning to arrest. He was brought to Walhalla and lodged in jail Sunday afternoon. Both are young negro mc.a.

Geo. Anderson, colored, has been arrested in Laurens for attempting to dynamite Mary Bridges Friday night. He wanted to forsake his wife for her, but she rejected him. He threatened her life. The dynamite bomb demolished her house, but she was away at the time. Sydney Smith, the white man who, in a drunken state, shot a defenseless old darkey at Rock Hill Saturday, was arrested, but escaped. He was allowed to circulate among his friends trying to get bondsmen, and cluded the constables. The feeling between the negroes and an element of cotton mill employees was intense and had been on account of former troubles, but an outbreak was averted.
